Profile

David's practice falls largely within four main areas of specialisation: employment; insurable negligence; disputes about products and environmental law.

His employment practice has a focus on:

- Injunction proceedings – enforcing compliance with contracts of employment; restrictive covenants, breach of confidence and employee competition;
- Disputes concerning members of LLPs, partnerships and directors of organisations;
- TUPE – disputed transfers and the effects of transfers on pay and pension rights;
- Sport – disputes concerning dismissal and pay within various sports industries;
- Whistleblowing and confidentiality;
- All forms of dismissal and discrimination litigation.

He has particular experience acting for clients in sports industries; brokerages; financial services; universities and law firms.

David litigates and advises on a wide range of insurance related matters. His practice extends across areas of insurable loss from property damage and subrogated claims to professional indemnity disputes.

Insurance issues frequently form part of David's practice on product liability and consumer disputes. He advises a number of multinational companies on their consumer policies and product related litigation.

David is an environmental law specialist, experience ranging from planning disputes through toxic torts and environmental damage to nuisance and property damage claims. He has appeared in public inquiries, JR proceedings and High Court trials in each of these areas.
